

MILITANT LEADER GIVEN THREE YEARS

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst
Sentenced to Penal Servitude for Bomb Conspiracy

SHE PROMISES HUNGER STRIKE

In Impassioned Plea to the Jury She Defies the Laws of the Country

LONDON, April 3.—This is the prison record so far achieved
by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant leader of the British suffragettes:

Feb. 4, 1908.—Sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment for leading a raid on the house of commons. Served the whole sentence.

Oct., 1908.—Sentenced for 3 months for inciting a riot. Released a few weeks before the sentence expired.

Nov., 1910.—Arrested in Downing street while heading a demonstration of 400 women who desired to interview the prime minister. No charge was preferred against her and she was released.

March, 1912.—Sentenced to two months' imprisonment for window smashing.

March, 1912.—Charged, while serving the foregoing sentence,
with conspiracy with Pethick
Lawrence and Mrs. Pethick
Lawrence and her daughter, Miss Christabel Pankhurst, in connection with the general window smashing raid on Oxford, Regent and Bond street shows. The daughter eluded arrest and escaped to Paris, where she since has been in exile.

The others were sentenced to nine months in prison.
Mrs. Pankhurst went on a hunger strike and after five weeks
all three were released.

Feb., 1913.—Arrested on charge of "inciting to commit malicious destruction of property" in connection with the Lloyd George explosion at Walton Heath. Committed for the May assizes of the Surrey county court in Guildford, and sent to Holloway jail because she refused to promise good behavior. Case transferred to criminal court, London, and set for the April assizes. Mrs. Pankhurst then pledged her good conduct and was released on $4,000 bond.

ed Press.)

LONDON, April 3.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, this afternoon was found guilty of "inciting to the malicious destruction of property," by a jury at Old Bailey, London's famous central criminal court.

Mrs. Pankhurst was sentenced to three years' penal servitude. When Justice Lush pronounced her sentence
she was greeted with hisses and boos
by the women in the court room, despite the efforts of policemen to keep them quiet.

"Shame!" cried some of the militants.

The maximum penalty for the crime of which she was convicted is fourteen years' imprisonment. The jury deliberated only a few minutes.

Throw Out Her Plea

The fate of Mrs. Pankhurst went to a jury of men after Justice Lush
had told the twelve that her impassioned plea—all the defense she submitted—"was irrelevant." When Chief Inspector O'Brien of Scotland Yard told his story of the arrest of Mrs. Pankhurst in her Knightsbridge flat, King's Counsel Rodkin announced that the crown had finished.

Facing the jurors without emotion,
but with earnestness in every word,
Mrs. Pankhurst told them she would call no witnesses, and then proceeded to tell the men why it was that she pleaded not guilty and asked acquittal, even while admitting full responsibility for the Walton Heath bomb explosion.

"No woman in England is ever tried by a jury of her peers, as is her right," she said. "Trials such as this today are examples of what they are suffering to obtain their rights."

"I pleaded not guilty because I am not wicked and not malicious,
though I accept full responsibility for the Lloyd George explosion."

Mrs. Pankhurst then proceeded to catalogue all the "man made" laws
of England that she said were unjust to women. They included almost every law of importance in the English code.

"The divorce law alone," she said,
"is sufficient to justify a revolution
by the women."

Defies Laws
Mrs. Pankhurst concluded her address to the jury by defying the country's laws, saying that she would not submit to them, no matter what happened.

"Whatever sentence may be imposed upon me, I'll not submit to it,"
she shouted. "If I am convicted, immediately after I leave this court room I shall start a hunger strike
and come out of prison dead or alive."

UNLUCKY PUSH IS CAUSE OF WRECK

CHICAGO, April 3.—If Mrs.
Mae Dolph had pushed the right electric button one night when her husband returned from his law office, the domestic affairs of the Dolphs might never have gotten into court.

A ladies' tailor was buttoning
Mrs. Dolph's new spring gown, she testified, when she heard her husband coming up the walk. She pressed a button, intending to flood the porch with light. Instead she said, the light in the room where she and the tailor stood, blinked out. The tailor, frightened, dove through a window and ran. This incident, she said, aroused her husband's suspicions and thereafter
their home life was not happy.

Dolph is a former law partner of Albert J. Hopkins, former United States senator from Illinois. He is asking custody of his children.

WIFE MAY DEFEND PROFESSOR OLSON

Woman Over Whom Darling Is Alleged to Have Shot to Take the Stand

SAYS DARLING MADE THREATS

Defense to Be that Victim Had Declared He Would Kill All Three

ST. PAUL, April 3.—Mrs. Catherine Olson, wife of Professor O. M.
Olson, probably will take the witness stand this afternoon in behalf of her husband, on trial in district court for the murder of Clyde N. Darling, shot March 6, by Olson, because the latter claims Darling had been intimate with Mrs. Olson.

The state completed its case late yesterday with the examination of Dr. D. C. Jones, coroner, and the defense began its case at noon today.
In anticipation of hearing Mrs. Olson's story a huge crowd packed the court room. Many others unable to get inside stood about the corridors questioning everyone who left the room.

The defense, it is reported, will either be insanity or that statute which confers on a husband or father
the right to protect his home and family.

Outlines Defense

For the first time since the pedagogue fired two bullets through the back of his victim a month ago the defense was outlined when Attorney
C. A. Fosness declared that he would prove Darling had threatened to kill Olson, Mrs. Olson and himself.

According to the opening statement for the defense, Olson had left his wife alone for weeks at a time while engaged in field work for the university. The lonely woman was captivated by the charms of the laundry driver, himself a college graduate, and gradually was induced to accept his illicit attentions. For weeks Darling was almost a constant visitor at the Olson home during the husband's absence. The couple planned to elope.

Finally, in a fit of remorse she told Darling she must reveal everything to her husband. "If you do," he is alleged to have said, "I will kill you and myself." Then it is declared he said he would "put the professor out of the road, get a divorce and they would be free to wed."

Mrs. Olson told her husband of her downfall but did not mention the threats. He warned Darling to stay away from his home or accept the consequences. Darling, it is said, stayed away for a short time and then returned again to force his attentions upon the erring wife. He again threatened to kill the professor it is alleged, and the wife, in an agony of desperation confessed to her husband that his life and her own was in danger.

Sent Wife Away

Olson sent his wife to the home of her parents in the country. Darling did not know of her absence,
the defense claims, and on the fatal
night, knowing that Olson himself had been away for some time, attempted to gain admittance to the house from the back door. Olson was just returned from a trip to the country was unpacking his grip, in which he had a loaded revolver. He glanced through the window and saw the figure of the despoiler. Darling entered the back door without knocking, it is alleged, and the professor clutched the revolver and fired twice as the intruder sought to flee.

FLORISTS SCORN CUBISTS

CHICAGO, April 3.—To show their contempt for the Cubist pictures being displayed in the Art Institute
here, the exhibitors in the spring flower show of the Horticultural society have refused to allow their flowers to be displayed in the same galleries with the freak pictures. The flower show is being held in the Art institute, where the works of the old masters are today entirely hidden by banks of rare blooms.

IMMIGRANT GIRLS LOST FROM TRAIN

Twenty Foreign Maidens Headed for Chicago Disappear at Newcastle, Pa.

MAY BE IN HANDS OF SLAVERS

Department of Justice Begins Investigation to Trace Mysterious Disappearance

CHICAGO, April 3.—The mysterious disappearance of twenty young immigrant girls from a Baltimore &
Ohio train enroute to Chicago from New York, caused C. F. DeWoody of the federal department of justice to begin an investigation today.

DeWoody believes that the twenty girls, not one of whom can speak English, may have fallen into the hands of white slavers.

The young women were of Polish,
French, Danish and Norwegian decent. They were in a party of 150 immigrants who left New York Tuesday of last week and were due to arrive in Chicago on Thursday morning.

When a Danish girl whose arrival had been expected by managers of
the Norwegian-Danish Christian Women's home in Chicago, failed to appear, an investigation was started. It was learned that on last Wednesday
when the train stopped at Newcastle, Pa., the twenty girls hurried to a lunch room a few blocks away from the station. They did not reappear and the train pulled out.

DeWoody wired United States authorities in Pittsburgh today asking them to investigate the disappearance of the girls.

When the girl who was expected from the Norwegian-Danish home failed to reach Chicago officials of the home notified Senator Neils Juul, himself a Dane and one of the leading figures in the Illinois senate white slave probe. Juul started the investigation.

C. C. Quayle, a welfare committee investigator, obtained a sworn statement from one of the immigrants who was aboard the train when it reached Chicago. "There were 150 in the party when the train left New York at 7 p. m. on March 17," the immigrant told Quayle. "About one-third of them were women. The married women were permitted to remain with their husbands, but the unmarried girls were herded together in certain cars."

"We reached Newcastle at about noon March 18. A brakeman or trainman with a newsboy came through the train and said there would be ten minutes for dinner in the station. When we reached Newcastle the men were held back and the girls sent off the train first."

"I got off, however, and was about to go to the lunch room when I saw the train pulling out. I managed to get aboard and told one of the train crew that some young girls were left behind."

"We cannot stop," he replied.

The train reached Chicago at 4 a.
m. March 19. The immigrant who made the sworn statement to Quayle thought the girls would follow on another train, but nothing has been heard from them, the investigators say.

In a letter to Andrew Silversen of
the Norwegian-Danish Christian Women's home today, an immigrant who was aboard the train and whose name was not made public, charged that a news "butcher," working with two strangers, engineered the alleged abduction of the girls.

The immigrant declared he saw the two strangers talk to the newsboy and that as the train approached Newcastle, the boy and the two strangers told each girl that a stop would be made in Newcastle for dinner.

The two strangers, the immigrant declared, left the train with the girls and entered the lunch room
with them.

Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio
today joined hands with the government and promised a thorough investigation.

Investigate Acts

NEW YORK, April 3.—Stanley W.
Finch, special agent of the department of justice in charge of the investigation of the white slave traffic in New York today conferred with local representatives of the department. He was to leave town late today and it was believed he was going to Newcastle, Pa., to investigate the reported disappearance of twenty
immigrant girls from a Baltimore
& Ohio railroad train in that place.

CHIPPEWA FLOOD RAISES RIVER HERE

During the past twelve hours the water stage of the river here has raised seven inches, due mainly to the breaking of the ice gorge at Chippewa Falls last night. Predictions have been made for a raise of more than a foot in the next forty-eight hours at this point. Government reports show that towns above
St. Louis are having high water.
This is caused by the flood stage of the river below the Ohio, which prevents the water of the upper river from flowing as fast. The high water mark of the lower river may have a slight effect on the Mississippi here.

TEN YEARS OVER SPLIT BIG STAKE

CHICAGO, April 3.—Following out a clause in the will of the late Gustavus Franklin Swift, founder of the packing company and refrigerator car system, his estate may now be divided. The will prevented heirs from dividing the estate
until ten years after the packer's death.

Since Swift's death the heirs have doubled the value of the estate, which is now rated at nearly $25,000,000. Eight children will share the estate.

Louis F. Swift, now head of the packing company, is the eldest of the heirs. The others are Edward F. Swift, Charles H.
Swift, Gustavus H. Swift, Jr.,
George H. Swift, Harold H.
Swift, Mrs. Edward Morris and Mrs. E. Hammond Everz.

BREWERY WORKERS ACCEPT CONTRACT

All Possibility of Strike Removed by Agreement Reached at Meeting
Last Night

BOTH SIDES ARE SATISFIED

Men Deny that Beer Allowance Had Any Part in the Controversy

The brewers and brewery workers
late last night reached an agreement
by entering into a new contract taking effect the first day of April this year and holding good for three years. This eliminates any possibility of a strike.

The two bodies have been at work for about thirty days in an effort to reach an agreement. The brewery workers being represented by Messrs.
Otto Kowalek, John Gannon, Otto
Martin, Sheldon Weber, H. Heberlein and Louis Schreiber. During the past few days Mr. John Rae, local organizer, and Mr. John Rader of Milwan-kee, representing the international union, have assisted in the negotiations. All of the brewery proprietors attended the conferences.

The agreement in detail is not made public but according to Fred H. Hartwell, attorney for the unions, the new contract is most satisfactory to both sides and was reached without any friction whatever.

Mr. John Gannon, secretary of the Bottlers' union and also representing the girls employed in the breweries,
Mr. Otto Martin, Secretary of the Brewers, and Mr. Otto Kowalek, secretary of the joint local executive board, deny emphatically the story in an evening paper yesterday to the effect that only a quart of beer allowance to the men each day stood between the men and the brewery owners. As a matter of fact, they state, the question of how much beer
the men should have was not at any time taken up or discussed by the committee in session with the brewery owners. This is a question over which there has been no dispute
and the new contract on the question gives the same amount as the old contract just expired.

SETTLE DISPOSAL OF INDIAN FUNDS

Apportionment of $900,000
Due the Winnebagoes Is Announced by Interrior Department

WISCONSIN INDIANS GET MOST

Each Indian of Nebraska and Badger State Branches to Receive About $425.00

After two years of discussion as to the proportionate amount due to each branch of the tribe, the interior department of the United States has settled the disposition of approximately $900,000, the joint trust funds of the Winnebago Indians of Nebraska and Wisconsin.

According to the decision of the department, based mainly on a census of the two branches of the tribe,
the Wisconsin Indians are entitled to $534,354.73 and the Nebraska branch to $344,922.18. There are 1086 Winnebagoes in Nebraska, according to the census taken in 1912, and 1247 in Wisconsin.

Each Indian Gets $425

The share each man, woman or child in the tribe is entitled to is about $425, according to Congressman John J. Esch, who made public the report and decision of the department of the interior today.

The Nebraska members of the tribe
will be given their share of the trust funds at once. The Wisconsin Indians will be paid only annuities consisting of the interest on their share of the trust funds. This decision was made because the Wisconsin Winnebagoes are considered less able to take of themselves and handle the money properly than the members of the Nebraska branch, who are mostly substantial farmers.

Any Wisconsin Winnebago who is able to convince the agents of the interior department of his ability to take proper care of his share of the trust fund may receive the lump sum due him at any time. This provision was made to be fair with those Wisconsin Winnebagoes who have settled upon farms and shown themselves to be trustworthy.

Distribution Begun

The distribution of the annuity to Wisconsin Indians was started Tuesday by Superintendent L. M. Compton of the Tomah Indian school. He was sent $27,000 to begin the payment, and the balance of $3,000 will be sent him as soon as the first installment is paid out.

The $900,000 held in trust for the Indians by the government is the proceeds of land sold to the United States by the Indians in the treaty of 1837. At that time they ceded to the United States all their land east of the Mississippi river, and were moved into Minnesota. They were moved twice after that, finally being settled upon a reservation at Usher's Landing, in Dakota, in 1863. The proximity to the hostile Sioux, however, displeased many of the Indians, and a majority of them wandered back to Wisconsin. A few years later the remains in Dakota were moved to a reservation in Nebraska, where they still remain.

Difference in Claims

The disposition of the trust fund was complicated by the difference in the amount of claims put forward by both branches of the tribe, which were hard to reconcile. Delegations from each branch of the Winnebagoes went to Washington and discussed the matter with the department of the interior officials. The Wisconsin branch owes its favorable consideration in the settlement mainly to the untiring efforts of Congressman Esch, with whom they have been holding frequent conferences since the matter was taken up at the capital.

Mr. Esch said today that there was a possibility the case is not finished
yet. He said the Nebraska Indians may be dissatisfied with their award and take the matter to the court of claims.

RECONCILED AT DEATH

NEW YORK, April 3.—Reconciled
with his wife on her death bed, F.
Augustus Heinze, the copper magnate, today prepared to follow the body of Mrs. Bernice Golden Henderson-Heinze to Toledo, Ohio, for the funeral services. It was the mutual love for their 18 months old boy, F.
Augustus Heinze, Jr., that brought them together when the physicians told Mrs. Heinze yesterday that her condition was critical.

FRENCH ARREST GERMAN OFFICERS

LUNEVILLE, France, April 3.— Several German army officers in full uniform were seized and detained by the French authorities in Luneville this afternoon, when they landed in French territory in a disabled Zeppelin airship. The Germans explained to Gen. Lescault, in charge of the army post here,
that they started from Lake Constance this morning and were forced to come down by reason of a broken propeller. In spite of their proposals that they were not spying, Gen. Lescault placed them under arrest.

The incident may develop into international complications.

ENNOBLE WAITRESS TO WED NOBLEMAN

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 3.—A young French Canadian girl, Lena Roy,
working as a dining-room girl
in a hotel here, today wedded in this city Hon. Hugo Von Holstein Rathbon, eldest son and heir of Lord Frederick Emile Von Holstein Rathbon, a noble of the court of Denmark. The girl was ennobled
by a court decree of Denmark, issued by King Christian. The Roman Catholic bishop of Prince Albert officiated. The couple left on their honeymoon trip through the United States.
The countess and her husband
will stop at Fall River, Mass., the former home of her parents, to visit her sister before sailing for Denmark. The girl worked in the Wilburn hotel at Fall River. She is 18 years of age. In that hotel she first met her husband.

MORGAN PROTEGEE A LA CROSSE MAN

Albin Polashek, Who Made Death Mask of Financier, Worked at Hackner's
as Sculptor

CARVED STATUES FOR CHAPEL

Was Sent to Europe After Taking Scholarships at Philadelphia Art Institute

Albin Polashek, the Philadelphia
art student, who was, according to yesterday's dispatches, permitted by Mrs. Satterlee, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, to make the death mask of the financier, is a former La Crosse man, having resided here for several years.

During his residence in this city
he was employed as a sculptor at the Hackner factory, where he had turned out many a fine piece of work.
The St. Michael statue now occupying the niche on the Ninth street facade of the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration, is his work.

Captured Scholarships

After leaving La Crosse, Mr. Po-lashek went to Philadelphia and entered the Institute of Art. The Philadelphia institute attracted him because of the scholarships it offered.
For three successive summers he was sent, at the expense of the school by virtue of the scholarships
he won, to various European capitals to study art. His final triumph came when he captured the scholarship that entitled him to a course at the American institute at Rome, an institution founded by Morgan.

The dispatches state that Mr. Po-lashek's studies were financed by Mr.
Morgan. This is very possible as Mr.
Polashek is a man of unusual ability,
and above all, he is thoroughly American in his ideals. He has always maintained that it was only a question of time when American would become the world center of art. Even while at work quietly in his studio in this city, ideas distinctly typical of our own Mississippi valley were taking shape in the form of a dream. One dream of his was the crystallization into sculptural form of the idea of the Mississippi as the Father of all waters; this was to be a group, and part of it was at that time modeled in clay. Considering then, Morgan's desire to secure the rarest pieces of art for America, it is very plausible that he should finance the studies of a young man of such ability and so distinctly American in his ideals.

The portrayal of objects and ideas
in sculptural form was born in him.
As a boy in his little village in the old country, he carved with a jack knife the likenesses of old soldiers with wooden legs and roving gypsies
that strayed through the village.
These were very grotesque little specimens, but very interesting considering that they were executed by a boy eight years old.

Is 32 Years Old

Mr. Polashek is about 32 years of age. In stature he is small; but very powerfully built, broad-chested,
and his arm muscles, characteristic of one used to handling the mallet
and the chisel, are like strips of steel. He is an expert gymnast, and some of the "stunts" he performed with 50 and 100 pound weights would make the average "strong man" shudder. Mr. Polashek is of Bohemian descent.

Mr. Polashek's home in America was and is La Crosse, and he has always maintained that he would like to live in La Crosse after he had made his mark.

MISS BROOKS TO WED

CHICAGO, April 3.—Miss Virginia
Brooks, militant suffragette and noted because of her reform victories in West Hammond, Ill., will be married late today or tomorrow to Charles S. Washburn, a young newspaper reporter, according to announcement made by Washburn himself after he had obtained a license today. Miss Brooks could not be found. A short time ago she denied stories that she was engaged to young Washburn.

This monogram stands for all you can ask in a motor car.

20,000 Miles

What car will carry you that distance in greater comfort and safety, and with less trouble and expense than a Chalmers "Thirty-Six"?

It's a pretty poor car indeed that won't make a good showing in a salesman's demonstration.

But it takes a pretty good car to travel 20,000 miles and please you as well at the end as it did in the beginning.

Chalmers cars stand this test. Hundreds are driven this far every year. Some have been driven as high as 140,000 miles, and are still in daily service.

You can pay almost any price for a motor car, but even the highest priced won't carry you 20,000 miles in more comfort with greater economy, or with less mechanical attention than the medium-priced Chalmers "Thirty-Six."

No lower priced car will give you equal comfort, economy and reliability.

Long stroke motor, four-forward speed transmission, nickel steel axles, extra large brakes—these and many other features of design secure the mechanical excellence of the Chalmers.

Large valves, new style Chalmers piston rings, improved carburetor, Timken bearings throughout the running gear—these are some of the Chalmers features which make for economy.

Turkish cushions, 11-inch upholstery, long wheel base, large wheels and tires, long, flexible springs—these are the things which make your Chalmers "Thirty-Six" comfortable. None more so.

Try the Chalmers "Thirty-Six" for 20,000 miles. By that time you will be agreed with us that no car at any price offers as much real automobile value for the money.

Let us give you your first Chalmers ride at your convenience.

NORMAL CHORUS AT WORK ON ORATORIO

Four Chicago Soloists to Take Part in Entertainment on April 10

With but one week left in which to rehearse, the normal school chorus of three hundred voices under the direction of Miss Harriet B. Oltman is beginning to put the finishing touches on the great oratorio "St. Paul," Mendelssohn, which will be presented with four Chicago soloists at the normal auditorium April tenth. The La Crosse musical public has shown its appreciation in the past by its strong support of the annual normal school music festival. The institution is the only organization in the city that every year presents a big classic work. "Gaul's 'Holy City' and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' met with the unqualified approval of music critics. Mendelssohn's great work 'St. Paul' is one of the masterpieces in musical drama, dealing with the tragedy of St. Stephen and the conversion of Saul of Tarsus into St. Paul the Apostle.

There are forty-five separate numbers in the presentation consisting of splendid choruses, recitatives, four part women's choruses which the glee club will sing and parts for ensemble male voices. Gustav Holmquist, basso, Mrs. Lucile Tewksbury Stevenson, soprano, Miss Cora Vandewater, contralto, and David Dunbar, tenor, comprise the quartet of soloists.

AN AMATEUR KIDNAPPING

By JANE OSBORN
Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

It was a glorious day in May and there was a half-holiday not listed on the curriculum of Wilton College. It took the form of a wholesale desertion from the classroom on the part of the students, and the instructors gladly accepted the situation. The fact was there was a counter-attraction in the town against which the most brilliant lecturer could not hope to exert drawing power.

The "hikers" were coming—they were due in the college inn for luncheon and were booked to speak on the campus at 2. Every one was interested, and the students displayed unabashed and open-minded interest in what they regarded as the latest brand of freak.

They had gathered around the steps of the college hall, where the much heralded Gen. Lollabelle Proctor was to deliver her harangue. They were ready with all their old cheers and a few new ones, invented especially for the occasion. If Gen. Lollabelle had been less heated and a little bit more familiar with the psychology of college men the trouble would never have begun. In the first place, she mistook the well-meaning cheers for a new variety of taunt, and therewith began to berate men in general, and college men in particular, in a way that no loyal son of Wilton College could endure.

Besides this, the day was one of those first warm days that sets the blood keen to do things out of the ordinary. Gen. Lollabelle was allowed to finish her speech, and then a low rumble went through the ranks of students.

"Let's kidnap her," some one said and a few enthusiasts gathered together to lay plans. It was soon decided that the general herself was not worth kidnapping, and when some one said something about kidnapping the "good looking" every one of the students recalled the figure of a really pretty young member of the party who, in spite of her travel-stained short skirt, slouch hat, stout shoes, alpine stick and knapsack, had struck a thrill of admiration into the breasts of more than one of the onlooking students.

"What shall we carry her off in?" asked the ringleader.

It was decided to use an automobile. Luckily enough Sandy Brannon, senior, happened to be rounding a corner of the campus road. He had apparently not been present for the great event, and seemed rather indifferent to the whole plan when he was hailed and told what he was expected to do. The fact was Sandy Brannon had been "out of sorts" for several months, though no one volunteered an explanation.

He was not enthusiastic about the scheme, but he offered no objections to letting his car be used for the kidnapping, and also agreed to run it, if he didn't have to help in handling the victim. The "hikers" were to return to the inn for an early supper and were to resume their march afterward, reaching the next town before time for retiring.

Fortunately for the plans of the would-be kidnapers, the "good looking," namely, Miss Flora Maynard, was walking at the rear of the line, several feet from any of her companions. This was because, in spite of her stout boots and alpine stick and the rest she had had on the campus, Miss Flora Maynard was weary and longed to end her journey.

The shadows were settling along the narrow hedge-lined road through which the girls were passing. Gen. Lollabelle was carrying a lantern, but its rays failed to throw its light on the path of Miss Flora. She was naturally a little afraid of the dark and she was wishing that she had a lantern of her own, when she heard a rustle in the hedge. She shied to the other side only to feel a strong hand resting on her shoulder, and, looking around, fairly fell into the arms of a tall young man, who deftly but rather gently proceeded to stifle her attempted shriek with a large outspread hand.

"Make no sound and we will spare you," she heard one of the men say, as they proceeded to carry her through the hedge. "You have been chosen our victim for reasons which we cannot reveal to you. You are the agents of the Amalgamated Organization of Gentlemen Anti-Suffragettes." They carried her weary body through the hedge, over a newly-planted cornfield to the next lane, where an automobile was in readiness, surrounded by a group of rather agreeable looking ruffians. She was gently tucked into the back seat. Sandy did not look at the girl, but he heard his associates talking to her. "Will you renounce suffrage and all of its wicked ways?" he heard the spokesman asking her in mock solemnity.

The plan was rather piteous. No one knew exactly what to do with the young lady. One of the college boys came running up the road with news that the dean of the college was getting into his automobile to come to the scene of the kidnapping.

In a flash the dozen or so students fled, leaving the girl in the tonneau and Sandy at the wheel. His first instinct was to escape, too, but then the thought that he would have to claim the car eventually and something in the girl's voice made him stay. He got out and cranked the car, reflecting that he couldn't drive across lots to take the victim back to her party, so he would have to drive with all speed three miles further to a crossroad, and might, in spite of the fact that the dean had a faster car than his own, still be able to restore her to her companions before he was caught.

"I will hurry you back to your friends," he said, and then he turned and looked at her through the growing dusk. He looked again to make sure and leaned over the seat with one hand on the wheel.

"Flora!" he gasped.

"You had better hurry if you want to escape before caught. It might mean your expulsion," she said.

"Suppose he does match up with us," said Sunday, speeding his car, "couldn't you say that I was an old friend of yours and that it was all right? See here, Flora," Sandy was again looking over the seat unmindful of the curves in the road, "it hasn't been my fault, this kidnapping business. I know how uncomfortable you are, but I can't drive the car with you back there acting that way. Come around here on the front with me or I'll have a smashup. I won't say a word, if you say so. Please—"

He slowed down the car and Flora swung around to Sandy's side. She smoothed her curling hair under her hat and straightened her collar. Then she sat as far from Sandy as she could without actually falling out of the car, and Sandy sped on.

She looked out of the car more as an excuse not to look at Sandy than for anything else, but apparently to see whether the dean was nearing them. After they had been going about ten minutes she broke the silence. "He is coming," she said in alarm. "He's just rounded the last curve."

In a minute more the dean was there, and with a voice that was not altogether pleasant he ordered Sandy to stop, and Sandy obeyed.

"Mr. Brannon, this is outrageous," he said. "I command you to release the young lady."

"I am an old friend of Mr. Brannon," she said, "and he was kind enough to offer to carry me on to the next town—isn't that all right?"

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said the dean completely disarmed. "I understood there was some sort of a foolish kidnapping going on, and that Mr. Brannon had a hand in it. I beg your pardon." So saying, the college dean backed up his car, turned about and fled back to the campus.

Then Sandy turned to the girl at his side. "Flora, you are an angel. You have saved my life. If I had been caught at it so near commencement I wouldn't have got my degree, and that would have been the end of it. Flora," he said, surprised at her lack of response, "aren't we going to be friends again?"

Then he changed his tactics. "Flora, I still consider our engagement binding. I never felt that it was off. Just because you misunderstood me, didn't give me the right to break my word to you or didn't give you a right to stop loving each other."

Flora was weakening. "I was afraid something like this would happen when we came to Wilton. They had planned to stop and there was nothing to do but obey orders. I was afraid I would see you."

"You didn't used to be a suffragette," Sandy said, drawing her hand through his arm.

"I had to go in for something after—after I didn't have you to think about," she said. Sandy laughed and accepted the excuse. He started the car again. "Where do you want to go?" he asked. "Shall I take you back to them, or shall I take you back home?"

Flora hesitated for a minute. "I think perhaps I had better go home, please, if it isn't too far, only we might just stop and tell the rest so they won't worry about me. You see I wasn't a really, truly suffragette, Sandy," she added, drawing close to his side in the most natural way imaginable, "and I think I have had enough 'hiking' now."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

A Joke For The Little April Showers.

Daddy Without an Umbrella.

THERE was quite a long wait for the story that evening. When Jack and Evelyn came upstairs daddy was taking forty winks in the easy chair by the window.

"Oh, you naughty daddy!" they cried. "You were just pretending sleep to tease us."

"I thought you might let me off when you saw I was taking a nap," daddy complained.

"It was just a make believe nap, and so, of course, we couldn't let you off," they answered.

"Very well, then; I suppose I must do the best I can. So I shall tell you something I dreamed one day."

"As I dozed off I felt carried away up into the sky by the sand man. And the sky was full of little clouds. They were scudding about, now here, now there, and seemed to be having a lot of fun among themselves."

"One of them jolted up against me, and when I cried 'Ouch!' very loud he begged my pardon and said he was sorry."

"And what are you doing up here?" he asked, looking very surprised.

"Aren't you the man we caught out yesterday without an umbrella?"

"I said I had been out the day before without an umbrella."

"Oh, what fun!" cried the little cloud. "Did you get very wet?"

"I did not see anything funny about being caught in a heavy shower, and I scowled as I replied that I had got very wet and that I had been very uncomfortable, not to mention having a nice new hat spoiled."

"Oh, dear!" laughed the cloud. "Don't be grouchy about it. If you could have seen how funny you looked racing home with your clothes sticking to your skin you would have laughed too."

"Well, maybe," I answered, but it is easier to laugh at others than at yourself. And who are you anyway?"

"The little cloud replied that he was an April shower cloud."

"You ought to know that much," he said severely. "We can have a whole month of April fooling instead of only a day, as the boys and girls do. Everybody knows that, and they ought to watch out for us."

"And that was all the comfort I got out of them, for that little cloud turned and told the others that I was the silly man they had caught out in the rain up and get away from them."

"And I want to warn you not to forget your umbrellas in April, Master Jack and Miss Evelyn, or maybe the April fooling showers will come down and catch you, and then the little rain clouds will be laughing at you too."

HARD ON THE OFFICE SEEKERS
Postmaster General Burleson has announced that he planned to place all fourth class postmasters on a civil service basis and that all second and third class postmasters would be in the classified service before he had finished.
What treason is this? What deep and devilish plan is proposed to rob the applicants at the "pie counter" of their reward for party services? Surely the new administration does not propose to hang out the sign, "restaurant closed," before the long eyes of those who for 16 years have existed upon the single hope that reward might come some day.
Mr. Burleson must be careful if he is not to bring down upon himself the maledictions of the office seekers. Already the rumble of discontent can be heard in their ranks. If he perpetrates such an infamy as to rob the pie hunters of a comfortable living off the government, he will be designated as the Judas Iscariot of the cabinet and the Benedict Arnold of the democracy.
But—and this is the important thing—if Postmaster General Burleson has the courage and the nerve to place the postoffice department in the classified service he will put the country under everlasting obligations to him. He will have demonstrated his purpose to serve the people first and his party next.
SHAME THE LADY WITH THE BIRD ON HER HAT
A Boston professor is reported to have said that women who wear song birds on their hats will never get to heaven.
This is putting it rather strongly, particularly as applied to the ultra-vain woman with whom a bird on the hat is heaven itself.
It is poor philosophy, for if the woman by merely wearing a bird on her hat denies herself all hope of heaven, there is no restraining influence left to prevent her going on through the whole gamut of sins.
It is poor theology, for the most "up-to-date" authorities in this science agree upon one point, and that is that the punishment of evil deeds ought not to be reserved for a future life, but ought to be, to some degree at least, apparent in this world. In this many conservative theologians agree with the most up-to-date mental gymnasts of theology and ethics.

Certainly, we have it in our power now to punish the wearers of birds. Social ostracism is something palpable and definite. The averted look of disapproval has more effect on the ultra-vain than have whole torrents of threats of eternal punishment.
There is dispute about hell. And the bird wearing woman can take refuge in the doubt. But a few significant looks and a few significant remarks on the part of her friends bring the penalty home to the very spot where she is most vulnerable.
And public opinion on this question is growing in the right direction. Defense of songbird wearing never any longer has the courage to show itself in public. So much has been said and so much is being thought against it that it is scarcely conceivable that any intellectual woman should be able thus to adorn her vanity without a secret blush of shame.
If the birds have no rights, public opinion has. And public opinion has power, too, that no woman's vanity can safely encounter.
So there is no need to sit idle in the hope that the next world will bring punishment. The punishment is in our own hands.

LAW IS POWERLESS TO REGULATE FASHION
The Ohio legislature has tackled a life-sized job and has put itself on record as being the most courageous and reckless legislature extant in this country. A bill which has been presented and will probably be passed provides for a commission of three to be appointed by the governor to prescribe the fashions to be worn by the women of Ohio. The legislature denounces peek-a-boo shirt waists, peek-a-boo stockings and proposes in future to regulate the cut, texture and degree of transparency of all clothing worn by Ohio women.
Particularly is the tight skirt to be attacked. It has been denounced as a peril to the morality of the country. The new commission will "fix limits of the décolleté effect in gowns, so that not more than two inches of the neck below the chin shall show." All skirts must reach to the instep. If Ohio women are like other women, and doubtless they are, the legislature is going to have its troubles. Out in Los Angeles the city council prohibited the hatpin, but the hatpin has survived and women who never wore them before began wearing them as soon as the law passed. In Massachusetts an anti-hat pin law has been passed with about similar effect. The law of fashion will predominate over the law of the state of Ohio beyond the pre-adventure of a doubt. The skirts in Ohio will be tighter, if possible. The waists will be peek-a-booer, the stockings will be more transparent and the gowns will be more décolleté than ever before if history in such cases repeats itself.
The regulation of feminine attire is no sort of job for a mere legislator.
The sardine catch of Europe is a failure this year, but as long as the American minnows hold out, there will always be plenty of canned sardines.
A lecturer at Chicago declared that men lived to be 1,000 years old before the flood. That was before breakfast foods and pajamas were invented.
Try it Luther B. See if these can't make a church going vegetable out of the green onion by grafting to a clove.
Assistant Secretary of State Adee should stand well with the administration. He also rides a bicycle.
President Wilson's great self control is evidenced by his refusal to accept free theater tickets.
That cigar named in honor of the Huerta administration must have a terrific aroma.
Those London suffragettes have even dispositions—they're mad all the time.
A Graveyard Guess
A spiritualist, accompanied by another man who shared the same belief, was walking in a country graveyard one night when one of the men declared he saw a "shadowy form."
"Have you any idea whose ghost it was?" asked the other.
"No, I can't tell you," he replied, "over yonder there lies a man who had three wives. On the stone of the first there is: 'My Wife,' on the second: 'My Dear Wife,' and on the third 'My Beloved Wife.' If any ghost does walk hereabouts I should say it is the first wife's."—Harper's Magazine.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles Is It Worth While?
Is it worth while that we jostle a brother
Bearing his load on the rough road of life?
Is it worth while that we jeer at each other
In blackness of heart?—that we war to the knife?
God pity us all in our pitiful strife.
God pity us all as we jostle each other.
God pardon us all for the triumphs we feel
When a fellow goes down; poor heart-broken brother,
Pierced to the heart; words are keener than steel,
And mightier far for woe or for wja.
Were it not well in this brief little journey,
On over the isthmus, down into the tide,
That we give him a fish instead of a serpent,
Ere folding the hands to be and abide,
Forever and aye in dust at his side.
Look at the roses saluting each other;
Look at the herds all at peace on the plain—
Man and man only, makes war on his brother,
And dotes in his heart on his peril and pain—
Shamed by the brutes that go down on the plain.
—Joaquin Miller.
An Americanism Interpreted
While a young American was on a trip abroad he visited the country home of a friend, and among the other guests was a prominent Englishman.
During their visit he and the Englishman became good friends.
One day the American's curiosity was aroused as he heard his friend refer to his umbrella repeatedly as a "jag."
Upon inquiry the Englishman remarked:
"Why that is an American word: I picked it up when I was in New York last winter. I am positive that I have the correct meaning of the word because the boys often remarked when they saw James coming down the street when it was raining hard. 'Here he comes, carrying a large jag.'"—Harper's Magazine.
The Efficiency Test
At the end of the Efficiency association's recent convention in New York, Lorimer H. Carstairs, an efficiency engineer of Grand Rapids, said to a group of reporters:
"The new science of efficiency is accomplishing miracles. Salesmen, chosen by efficiency standards, now sell 200 or 300 times as much as salesmen used to do.
"Efficiency teaches the employer to judge the applicant for a job by his shoes, his coat, his eyes, the color of his hair, and so forth. Oh, it's a wonderful science.
"But that old timer, too"—Mr. Carstairs' smile here heralded the coming of a joke—"that old timer to whom Van Ness applied had the efficiency germ in him, too.
"Van Ness, answering a want ad said proudly to the old timer:
"My great-great-grandfather was Patron Omdendok Van Ness, my great-grandfather, Cornelius Van Ness, married Lady Mary Wortley, so that on the female side I belong to the Montague family. My grandfather—
"But the old timer at this point broke in impatiently:
"Look here, young fellow," he said, "we want a man for keeping books, not for breeding purposes."

That Corn Is a Sure 'Goner,' Now
"GETS-IT," the New-Plan Corn Cure, Gets Any Corn Surely, Quickly
You'll say, "It does beat all how quick 'GETS-IT' got rid of that corn. It's almost magic!" "GETS-IT" gets every corn, every time, as sure as the sun rises. It takes about 2 seconds to apply it. Corn pains stop, you forget the corn, the corn shrivels up, and it's gone! Ever try anything like that? You never did. There's no more fussing with plasters that press on the corn, no more salves that take off the surrounding flesh, no more bandages. No more knives, files or razors that make corns grow, and cause danger of blood poison. "GETS-IT" is equally harmless to healthy or irritated flesh. It "gets" every corn, wart, callus and bunion you've got.
"GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in La Crosse by the Columbia Pharmacy, City Book and Drug store, Spence-McCord Drug Co., Charles Beyschlag, Geo. Mariner, C. F. and L. Runckel.

THE FIRESIDE SERMON
By Lucius C. Clark, D. D.
Thursday, April third, 1913
Edward Everett Hale, Born April third, 1822
Hosea, 3, 4
"For the children of Israel shall abide many days without a king," Hosea has written about a man without a King, or Prince or sacrifice, or image, or ephod, or teraphim. It is as desolate a picture as the writer can imagine. Edward Everett Hale has written us the message of "A man without a country." To a modern the latter picture holds more of despair for such condition than does the former. Every man has reason to be proud of his own country.
REFUSE NEW TRIAL
PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—Former Director of Public Safety Henry Clay and Contractors John R. Wiggins and Willard H. Walls were today refused a new trial in quarter sessions court, and sentenced to not less than 18 months or more than two years each in the penitentiary. They were also ordered to pay a fine of $500 each. The men were convicted of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with the erection of city fire and bath houses. The defendants furnished $10,000 bail, pending an appeal.

WOMEN BURGLARS CAUGHT IN FRISCO

Miss Jessie Clifton (top), Miss Beatrice Bailey and Mrs. Maud J. Shea (bottom).
Three women and two men are strangely mixed in San Francisco's latest burglary case. The five are in the city prison, charged with stealing a houseful of goods from shops and stores throughout San Francisco.
The suspects are Jessie Clifton, a student in the art classes of the University of the Pacific at San Francisco; Beatrice Bailey, dance hall girl; Bert Shepard, bartender and cafe entertainer, who is said to have a wife with whom he has become estranged and for the affections of whom the first two girls strove, with the result the latter won; Margaret Shea and her husband, Patrick Shea, with whom Miss Clifton lived.

THE JUST AND THE UNJUST
By Vaughan Kester
The Prodigal Judge

The little lamplighter was dressed in those respectable garments which in the Shrimplin household were adequately described as his "other suit," and as if to remove any doubt from the mind of the beholder that he had failed to prepare himself for the occasion, he wore a clean paper collar, but no tie, this latter being an adornment Mr. Shrimplin had not attempted in years. Close on Mr. Shrimplin's heels came a jaded unkempt woman in a black dress, worn and mended. On seeing her the judge's cold scrutiny somewhat relaxed.
"So it's you, Nellie," he said, and motioned her to a chair opposite his own.
Not knowing exactly what was expected of him, Mr. Shrimplin remained standing in the middle of the room, hat in hand.
"Be seated, Shrimplin," said the judge, sensing something of the lamplighter's embarrassment in his presence and rather liking him for it.
"Thank you, Judge," replied Shrimplin, selecting a straight-backed chair in a shadowy corner of the room, on the very edge of which he humbly established himself.
"Better draw nearer the fire, Shrimplin," advised the judge.
"Thank you, Judge, I ain't cold," rejoined Mr. Shrimplin in his best manner.
The judge turned to the woman. She had once been a servant in his household, but had quitted his employ to marry Joe Montgomery, and to become by that same act Mr. Shrimplin's sister-in-law. The judge knew that her domestic life had been filled with every known variety of trouble, since from time to time she had appealed to him for help or advice, and on more than one occasion at her urgent request he had interviewed the bumbling Joe.
"I hope you are not in trouble, Nellie," he said, not unkindly.
"Yes, I am, Judge," cried his visitor in a voice worn thin by weariness.
"It's that disgustin' Joe!" interjected Mr. Shrimplin from his corner, advancing his hooked nose from the shadows. "Don't take up the judge's time, Nellie; time is money, and money's as infrequent as a white crow."
And then suddenly and painfully conscious of his verbal forwardness, the little lamplighter sank back into the grateful gloom of his corner and was mute.
"It's my man, Judge—" said Nellie.
And the judge nodded comprehendingly.
"I don't know how me and my children are to live through the winter, I declare I don't, Judge, unless he gives me a little help!"
"And the winter ain't fairly here yet, and it's got a long belly when it does come!" said Mr. Shrimplin.
Immediately the little man was conscious of the impropriety of his language. He realized that the happy and forcefully expressed philosophy with which he sought to open Custer's mind to the practical truths of life, was a jarring note in the judge's library.
"Joe's acting scandalous, Judge, just scandalous!" said Nellie with sudden shrill energy. "That man would take the soul out of a saint with his carryings-on!"
"It seems to me there is nothing new in this," observed the judge a little impatiently. "Is he under arrest?"
"No, Judge, he ain't under arrest—" began Nellie.
"Which ain't saying he hadn't ought to be!" the little lamplighter snorted savagely. He suddenly remembered he was there to give his moral support to his sister-in-law.
"That man's got a new streak into him, Judge. I thought he'd about done everything he could do that he shouldn't, but he's broke out in a fresh spot!"

"What has he been doing, Nellie?" asked the judge, who felt that his callers had so far lacked in directness and definiteness.
"What ain't he been doing, you'd better say, Judge!" cried Nellie miserably.
"Is he abusing you or the children?"
"I don't see him from one week's end to another!"
"Am I to understand that he has deserted you?" questioned the judge.
"No, I can't say that, for he sends his clothes home for me to wash and mend."
"Ain't that the human sufferin' limit?" gasped Mr. Shrimplin.
"I suppose you wash and mend them?" And the judge smiled faintly.
"Of course," admitted Mrs. Montgomery simply.
"Does he contribute anything toward your support?" asked the judge.
The woman laughed sarcastically at this.
"It takes a barkeeper to pry Joe loose from his coin," interjected Mr. Shrimplin. "Get down to details, Nellie, and tell the judge what kind of a critter you're hitched up to."
"He told Arthur, that's my oldest boy, if I didn't stop bothering him, that he was just man enough to pay five dollars for the fun of knocking the front off my face!"
"That was a choice one to hand out to an eldest son, wasn't it, your Honor?" said the little lamplighter, tugging at his flaxen mustache.
"I just manage to keep a roof over our heads," went on Nellie, "and without any thanks to him; but he has plenty of money, and where it comes from I'd like to know, for he ain't done a lick of work in weeks!"
"Fact, Judge!" remarked Mr. Shrimplin. "I've made it my business lately to keep one eye on Joe. He spends half his time loafin' at Andy Gilmore's rooms, and the other

TRY IT! SAYS SAGE TEA DARKENS AND BEAUTIFIES FADED, GRAY HAIR
Mixed With Sulphur Makes Hair Soft and Luxuriant and Removes Dandruff
The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is coming in vogue again, says a well-known downtown druggist. It was our grandmother's treatment and hundreds of women and men too, are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.
Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is the most popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply dampen a soft brush or sponge with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight, and by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application it is restored to its natural color.
What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair they say it produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive: besides prevents dandruff: itching scalp and falling hair. Here, you gray-haired folks, get busy: look years younger. O. T. Erhart, agent.

PICTURE THEATRE TO SHOW FLOODS

Local Theater Managers Make Special Efforts to Procure Scenes of Disaster

The general public little realizes the efforts and the expense necessary for the local picture theater managers to secure timely pictures of important happenings. When news came of the awful flood disasters which are still holding the attention of the whole country, the managers of the local theaters knowing there would be motion pictures of the flooded districts, set about to secure the pictures for exhibition in La Crosse as soon as they would be shown in the big cities.

Mr. F. J. McWilliams says he telephoned to Chicago at least ten times in the last week endeavoring to secure the pictures for the La Crosse Theater, and that his telephone and telegraph expense in endeavoring to give these pictures to the La Crosse public as soon as they were shown anywhere has cost him not less than twenty-five dollars alone, and he further says that the cost of letting the public know that the pictures are here and the cost of the pictures themselves for one day's rental will bring the expenses of showing the pictures in La Crosse to at least $75.

The flood pictures will be shown tomorrow night, and in order that everyone may see them the afternoon performance will start at one o'clock and the evening performance at six forty-five.

NORTH SIDE BOAT CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

The Copeland Motorboat club will hold a meeting tonight at the home of William McDonald, 1500 Rose St. Numerous plans have been made for the betterment of motorboating on the Mississippi and Black rivers, and surrounding waters of La Crosse. Among them is a plan to buoy the Black river and to repair Hammond Chute. These plans will be perfected in tonight's meeting.

THOMAS SEABROOKE DIES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 3.—Thomas Q. Seabrooke, famous comedian in the early days of musical comedy and light opera, died in an actors' rooming house, No. 176 South Clark street, today of acute alcoholism.

Seabrooke drifted into Chicago several months ago, feeble and out of work. He was unable to obtain employment and became ill.

Chorus girls in the actors' rooming house took turns in caring for him, and then several actors "chipped in" and hired a nurse. Old friends of Seabrooke will see to it that he is given a decent burial.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke appeared in a comedy single sketch at the Majestic theater here just after the opening of the season.

PRESBYTERIANS HOLD BANQUET

North Side Church Celebrates Prosperous Year at the Annual Meeting

Financial Condition Good in Spite of Increased Expense; Rev. Clark Praised

The North Presbyterian church held a banquet last night in connection with their annual business meeting. Reports were read by the heads of the different departments of the church, and it was shown that in spite of the heavy expense the church has had during the past year, there is a large fund in the treasury. The church records showed an increase in their congregation of ten per cent in the last year.

The business meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. Finch A. Clark. Dr. George W. Lueck acted as chairman. The chairmen of the different organizations of the church read their reports as follows: Sunday school, Miss Grace Mallory; Young People's society, Miss Stella Sheely; choir, Mrs. Charles Bonnevill; Alpha club, Miss Vera Higbee; Omega club, Mrs. Ross Venneman; Young Woman's club, Charles Bonnevill; Boy's club, Mrs. P. J. Hadgrath; Young Men's league, G. L. Wartinbee.

Professor Harry Spence, church treasurer, made the feature address of the evening, complimenting Rev. Clark on the work that he had done in the church in the three years that he had been pastor. He said that he regarded the church as one of the strongest church institutions in the city, both in the congregation and in finances. He said that this has been possible through the leadership of Rev. Clark.

He said that at the end of each month he had been able to meet all bills, and to have a balance left in the treasury. He declared that the work of the institution had gone far ahead of his expectations, in spite of the increase of expenses of the last year.

The officers of the church for the following fiscal year of the church are as follows: Superintendent of the Sunday school, R. W. Gifford; assistant superintendent, Charles Bonnevill; secretary, Stella Sheely; treasurer, Grace Mallory; organist, Vera Bunze; church treasurer, Professor Harry Spence; organist and choir director, Clara Larson; trustees, Frank Schini, Dr. George W. Lueck. Dr. Lueck was elected elder to succeed himself for three years.

Dr. Lueck made a speech commending Rev. Clark on his progressive work in the church during the time he has been in the work.

William Ness is supervising a gang of men repairing the recent damage of the Copeland park terrace facing Black river, which was washed partially away by heavy rains and the rising of the river. With the work that has been going on for the past month and a half, the park this year promises to be one of the beauty spots of La Crosse.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 3.—"Bat" is going to quit," said Mrs. Fay King Nelson, as she and the one-time champion left for Bogota, N. "He's had the championship and everything there is to be had, and even if he should win the championship again, he'd only be getting something he's already had before—and Bat's had enough of it—so he's going to retire, after the next one."

MILWAUKEE YARDS FULL OF TRAFFIC

Road Builds Extension of Yards at La Crescent to Relieve Congestion

J. H. Foster, general superintendent of the northern district of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company arrived this morning on No. 23 at 11 o'clock, and left on No. 30 of the Southern Minnesota division. He will inspect the road.

Four or five engines are passing through La Crosse every week over the Milwaukee, from Joliet, Ill., for the D. M. and N. at Dubuque. The draw bridges of the Milwaukee over the Mississippi and Black rivers were in readiness for use this morning.

With the arrival of spring, the north side yards have taken on a busy air. For the past few months business has been reported to be heavier than for some time, and it is expected that it will increase with the warmer weather. With this expectation the company is building an extension to their yards in La Crescent. This will enable yard officials on the north side to keep the yard open at all times. During the past winter the yards have been blocked, due to a great number of trains arriving at the same time.

FRANKLIN TO DEBATE ON MINIMUM WAGE

The weekly meeting of the Franklin club will be held tonight in Fielstad's hall. The question which has been brought forward for debate, is "Resolved, that Wisconsin should enact a minimum wage law of eight dollars a week for women."

RUBBER MILLS GIRLS GIVE BIG DANCE

The young lady employees of the La Crosse Rubber Mills gave an informal dance last night in Union hall on Rose street. About one hundred couples attended and the affair was reported to be one of the successes of the season on the north side.

Employees of the tennis shoe department of the mills had a vacation yesterday, due to a lack of workers in this department.

SHOT BY MISTAKE TAKEN FOR THIEF

CHICAGO, April 3.—Charles Pennington, aged 50, believed to be a wealthy Bloomington, Ill., promoter, was shot and killed early today by Harry Farrell, who mistook Pennington for a burglar.

The shooting occurred at a fashionable rooming house, 2348 Calumet avenue, where Pennington had been living for years. Farrell lived on the second floor and Pennington directly above. Farrell was awakened early today by a noise at his door. He got a revolver and demanded to know who was at the door.

There was no answer. When Farrell heard retreating steps he opened the door and called again. When the man failed to answer he fired and Pennington fell over dead. Farrell surrendered.

MISS LOWE WILL TALK SOCIALISM

Miss Caroline Lowe, well known socialist speaker, will deliver a lecture in the old Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow night on the "Socialist Movement." This lecture will be the last of the addresses that have been given here by the lyceum branch of the socialist party.

Miss Lowe became interested in socialism while teaching school in Kansas. Careful study of the subject convinced her that only through connection with this movement could she achieve a work that is truly worth while. She became a public speaker in 1908 and since has contributed largely to the success of the movement wherever she has been heard.

FAMOUS SWIMMER TO BE AT Y.M.C.A.

Hebden H. Corsan Will Give Exhibition and Lessons; Challenges to Water Wrestle

Hebden H. Corsan, swimming instructor of national reputation will give exhibitions and free swimming lessons to members of the Y. M. C.
A. from April 21 to 26. Corsan is not unknown to members of the association, his father having given instructions in swimming here about two years ago. While in the city
Mr. Corsan will challenge any man to a wrestling match under water. He has never been defeated in this test.
The longest time it has taken for him to take a man out of the water has been five minutes.

What constant application will do for an athlete is clearly exemplified in the case of Mr. Corsan. Although now a master of 44 various swimming strokes, three years ago Corsan swam like the proverbial stone. However a summer in the water at Jacksonville, Fla., made him very enthusiastic, with the result that he devoted two hours each day, one in the morning and another in the afternoon, to mastering the natatorial art.
Within two months' time he became so proficient that he gave an exhibition of his prowess in the Jacksonville Y. M. C. A. Since that time he has traveled throughout the country, performing in almost every state in the union, as well as on battleships of "Uncle Sam," in the Atlantic fleet.

Corsan not only gives exhibitions on his travels, but he has been engaged almost everywhere he has shown, to teach men how to swim.
His record is 2,400 students in one week, Corsan holds the world's mark
as a teacher of swimming.

Corsan ridicules the old time breast stroke taught to beginners by so many swimming teachers. He says that this style of swimming forces a man to keep his head up, instead of in the water, as it should be,
thereby forcing the student to greater exertion than with the other strokes.

BULL MOOSE WANT PLACE ON BALLOT

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—(Special.)—Bull moose adherents from all parts of the state are here today urging the passage of the bill introduced by Assemblyman Axel Johnson, providing a method for new parties to gain a place on the primary ballot. The hearing on the bill was scheduled for this afternoon.
The Johnson bill stipulates that a new political party may gain a place on the ballot by petition of a certain number of signers in at least ten counties. Bull moose candidates were forced to appear as "independents" on the ballot at the last primary.

Prince was not credited with 100
votes through a clerk's error.

a sharp curve. Officials declare the

When in Doubt NOT SALTS AND PILLS "CASCARETS"

If Constipated, Bilious, Headache, Stomach Sour, get a 10 cent box of Cascarets

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep,
are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?
This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep;
cleanse and regulate the stomach,
remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent
box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular and head clear for months.
Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—
do good—never gripe or sicken.

CHIPPEWA RIVER FLOODS VILLAGE

Cobban Inundated and Anxiety Is Felt for Other Towns Along
Its Valley

CHIPPEWA Falls, Wis., April 3.—
Much territory adjacent to the banks of the Chippewa river face a serious flood. The little town of Cobban, 15 miles north of here, is under eight feet of water and the residents have fled to the bluffs near the city. Cob-ban has a population of 350. The breaking of a big ice gorge in the river on the east city limits in Chippewa Falls caused great anxiety here for a time, but at 9 o'clock this morning the water is slowly receding.

The telephone operator at Cobban remained at his post until the water reached his waist. He notified Chippewa Falls and other places along the river of its rapid rise and then fled to where other residents of the town were seeking safety.

DAKOTA TAX IS DECLARED VALID

SIoux FALLS, S. D., April 3.— Contention of the Wells Fargo and American Express companies that the assessment and levy of taxes made by the state of South Dakota against them for the year 1910 was unconstitutional was overruled by Judge Elliott in the United States court in a decision rendered yesterday. The disputed law was declared constitutional in the decision and the injunction secured by the express companies to prevent the state treasurer
from collecting the taxes for the year stated was dissolved. Under the decision the Wells Fargo company will be required to pay $9,334.02 back taxes, and the American Express company $7,034.66.

TO MAKE PAPER OF FLAX STRAW

GRAND FORKS, N. D., April 3.— Announcement was made today that the Northwestern Fiber and Pulp company will establish a plant here
for the manufacture of paper pulp from flax straw. The factory will use about thirty tons of flax straw daily and will give employment to forty men.

C. R. Green, head of the company, who claims he solved the problem
many have worked for years to make practical the process, says he discovered the mystery while a student at the University of Wisconsin and has tried it out in an experimental factory at Chicago.

STUDENT COUR TAT UNIVERSITY RESIGNS

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—At the last meeting of the student court of the University of Wisconsin, the members of the student court, which has been considered up to this time
the court of last resort in cases of student discipline, handed in their resignations in a body.

The wholesale walk out came as the refusal of the court justices to abide by the decision of the university regents, who amended the court's charter recently in such a way as to take away the last vestige of their charter.

The trouble with the regents occurred about three weeks ago, when Dennis Crile was expelled from the university by the board, while the case was being taken under advisement
by the student justices. From that time on, the members of the court have been threatening to resign.

FIGHT PROMOTER'S PULL IS USELESS

NEW YORK, April 3.—Lou Houseman, prize fight promoter, spent three hours in jail yesterday while his friends rustled around to obtain bail for him, after his arrest on the charge of driving an automobile past
a street car discharging passengers.

"You can't arrest me," said Houseman to Motorecycle Policeman Smith.
"I'm Lou Houseman. Why I'm known all over the world as the promoter
of the Jeffries-Johnson fight."

What the policeman said didn't go on the record. He ordered Lou to drive to the nearest station.

"SUICIDE POOL" CLAIMS VETERAN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 3.—

of lives the past twenty years, found a new victim on Wednesday, when the pond. Marer was last seen alive on Tuesday. It is supposed that, in a fit of despondency, he threw himself into the water.

ALFONSO HURT AT POLO

LONDON, April 3.—King Alfonso of Spain is only now recovering from the polo accident of last week, which was more serious than the public was allowed to know. With the king's recovery assured, it was stated today
that he was struck a violent blow
on the back of his head with a mal-

arch of Marquis Diviana. King Alfonso was unconscious when picked up and was kept in bed for several days.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF STEALING $27

Anna Meyers Bound Over to Circuit Court on Charge of Larceny

Anna Meyers (Bartschenfeld), proprietor of a north side rooming house, was bound over to the circuit court by County Judge John Brindley yesterday following a preliminary examination at which the woman was accused of larceny.

The complaining witness was Adolph Bachmann, a laborer in the quarries, who testified that he had visited and drunk whiskey with the woman in at least two saloons and then had gone to her home with her.

He declared that he had about $27 in his pocket when he went in the house with her but that when he left he was minus the money. He said she had good opportunity to take it from him.

The woman denied ever having seen her accuser or taking him to her home. She was accompanied by a sixteen year old son, who sat at her side during the trial.

GARY LAYS CLAIM TO AN 18,000 LEAD

Returns Today Do Not Cut Down Superintendent's Lead Over Kittle

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—Returns received early today at the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Cary failed to cut down the superintendent's lead over William Kittle, his opponent in Tuesday's election. Cary's friends today were claiming the election by about 18,000. Kittle has refused to make any statement.

In some counties as in Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Vernon, Ashworth, Monroe, Eau Claire, Buffalo, Iowa, Green Lake, Richland and others, Superintendent Cary has a large lead while only a few counties, so far as yet reported, were carried by Mr. Kittle, as the latter's vote fell far below what his supporters expected in counties where the most work was done for him. Superintendent Cary's majority may be increased by the complete returns. Mr. Kittle appears to have carried Douglas, Juneau, La Crosse, Racine and Trempealeau counties.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see the symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

FRIEDMANN SURE OF GOOD REPORT

Convinced that Government Investigators Can Only Approve His Serum

NEW YORK, April 3.—Apparently convinced that the government physicians would make a favorable report of his tuberculosis cure, Dr. F. F. Friedmann today announced that within a few days or a week the secret of his tubercle bacilli culture injection would be given to the American medical profession at large.

"We shall not tell the world how to make the liquid for injection," Dr. Friedmann said through his interpreter, "as that would be dangerous to the interests of the public. But we shall arrange through regular channels so that all reputable physicians may be able to obtain my remedy and treat tuberculosis in all parts of the country."

It was explained that the much discussed "secret" withheld by Dr. Friedmann is the method transforming the extract from the culture of bacilli into the liquid injected into the patients. In this process several foreign substances are used.

EKERN DECISION IS EXPECTED TUESDAY

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—The impression is general throughout the capital that when the supreme court meets next Tuesday a decision will be handed down in the McGovern-Ekern case. Much interest centers in the probable action of Lewis A. Anderson, named as Ekern's successor, in the event that the decision is unfavorable to Commissioner Ekern. The impression is general that if the decision from the court is favorable to himself that Anderson will try to take the office of commissioner of insurance by storm.

SHAWNEETOWN IS SWEPT BY FLOOD CAIRO AT CRISIS

reserves left immediately in their launch, towing a whaleboat and returned to Cairo with the men early today. They were later transferred to Commerce, Mo., where headquarters for the Missouri National Guard have been established.

Reports reaching here from Brookport, Ky., near Paducah, are that the entire town is under water. An appeal for aid made to Springfield caused the steamer "Rapid" loaded with supplies and boats, to be dispatched there for rescue work.

From Brookport the boat will go to Shawneetown.

Mechanicsburg, a suburb of Paducah, inhabited mostly by laboring men, is entirely under water and the inhabitants have taken refuge in Paducah.

River 40 Miles Wide

Paducah has no levee, need of such protection never before having been evident. As the result the rivers form a swiftly moving body of water in many places forty miles wide. A fleet of steamers has been ordered to Cairo by the war department, a report here said to do relief work. These steamers will bring supplies to the thousands of refugees in Wickliffe, Ky., the only high place near here. In Wickliffe are nearly all the inhabitants of a dozen cities and towns on both sides of the river, and food and other supplies have been low for two days.

The steamboat City of Cairo left this morning on a rescue trip to O'Brien's Landing, on the Missouri side, where it is reported many families are trapped on house tops and suffering greatly.

It is reported here that the levee at Medley, Mo., 40 miles south of this city, has given away. If true, Cairo's predicament will be greatly relieved. Another relief expedition has started to Bird's Point, Mo., to investigate a report that families had been seen on house-tops. The expedition also will watch for other evidences of suffering from the flood.

While Cairo continues to appear safe from any great flood damage, some anxiety is caused by the prediction of a thunder and wind storm this afternoon.

Lieut. Buckner arrived in Cairo early today to take charge of the relief work, as a personal representative of the war department. His party came from Paducah on the steamer Rapids which was with two barges and a number of awls.

The village of Mound City, eight miles north of Cairo, is having a hard fight with the flood. Last night the city lighting plant failed and residents were in darkness. The levees were reported intact there this morning. The steamer George Lee from Memphis arrived at midnight and reported having made but four landings between Memphis and Cairo. At Caruthersville the boat took on board several families of refugees. At New Madrid the boat did not attempt to stop. The people in sight waved their hands frantically from houses and rowboats, motioning the boat to get away from the town, fearing the wash would break the levees. The water was running through the streets and many persons were seen in boats.

Every point in Missouri was flooded from New Madrid to Cairo, according to refugees on the Lee. The Ohio is backing up. Cacicreek and cutting through the Mississippi river over the Mobile and Ohio railroad and the Iron Mountain railroad embankments, about Beech Ridge, thus diving the Ohio into two streams, with Cairo in the south fork.

Break at Naples

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., April 3.—The Illinois river levee at Naples near here broke in three places at 5:30 o'clock this morning, flooding most of the town four feet deep. The levee at Meredos broke at 7 a. m., flooding 10,000 acres of farm land and part of the town from 2 to 10 feet deep.

Reports from Beardstown were that the town was surrounded by water which was one foot deep in the main street. One hundred families had been driven from their homes.

CINCINNATI, O., April 3.—The Ohio river continued to fall slowly today. Since early yesterday until noon today it had receded a foot and a half.

The fall is at the rate of about a tenth of an inch an hour, said Weather Forecaster Devereaux. "It will be faster tomorrow. In the next 24 hours the Ohio will fall three feet, and in the following 24 hours, or by Saturday, five feet more. The rate of the decline will constantly increase."

NINE ADDED TO COLUMBUS DEAD

Search Renewed with Vigor After Discovery which Brings Total Up to 81

GOVERNOR TOURS FLOOD DISTRICT

Rain Along Wabash Causes Rise and Discourages Inhabitants of Hoosier Valley

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 3.—The work of searching for bodies of victims of the flood was renewed with vigor today following the finding of nine bodies yesterday. The total number of bodies recovered up to today is 81. Another large squad of convicts and volunteer workers attacked the tons of debris south of the city where several more bodies are expected to be uncovered. The local relief committee again issued urgent appeals for money and supplies.

Governor at Dayton ON BOARD OHIO RELIEF COMMISSION SPECIAL TRAIN, DAYTON, Ohio, April 3.—Governor Cox, accompanied by Miss Mabel Boardman of the National Red Cross society and members of the Ohio relief committee, today saw for himself the havoc wrought by the flood which swept his home city. A complete tour of the city was made by the party and the committee is expected to formulate more complete plans at once for the relief of the flood sufferers.

In an interesting stereopticon lecture Governor Cox and the commission were shown actual scenes in the city when the flood and fire was at its height.

A map was displayed on the screen showing how the homes of 27,000 of Dayton's 120,000 population had been under water, and emphasized the fact that it would cost upwards of $40,000,000 to rehabilitate the city alone.

The commission plans to visit Hamilton, Piqua, Chillicothe and Marietta today and inspect conditions in these places.

Rain Raises Wabash

CARMEL, Ill., April 3.—Rain in the flood zone of the Wabash valley today discouraged the flood sufferers. The Wabash river at its mouth is at flood stage. The Little Wabash at New Haven, Ill., rose an inch last night. That village is almost covered. An appeal has been sent to Governor Dunne from Epworth, Ill., four miles east of here, asking for gasoline launches in which to rescue livestock.

Foreigners Send Aid WASHINGTON, April 3.—Flood contributions of $16,250 were received by President Wilson today from Canada, London and Paris. The American chamber of commerce in Paris sent $8,000; the American Launch club of London, 250 pounds, and the mayor of Regina, Sask., $1,000.

"In behalf of the welfare of this country, I ask the jury to find me not guilty."

Justice Lush summed up the crown's evidence and told the jury that Mrs. Pankhurst's remarks were beside the point. At her request he then adjourned court until 2:15 p. m., to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to consult with her daughter, Miss Sylvia Pankhurst.

At the appointed moment Justice Lush told Mrs. Pankhurst that the recess had expired and the case was given to the jury.

Abandon Nasal Feeding LONDON, April 3.—Miss Zelle Emerson, the American suffragette no longer is forcibly fed through the nose in Holloway jail, because of her serious ill health, it was learned today. The prison doctors now feed Miss Emerson through a mouth tube. The nasal feeding injured her to such an extent that her condition is said to be alarming.

Despite her illness, friends of the young Michigan girl said Miss Emerson has been placed in solitary confinement three times for infractions of prison rules.

Having What People Want

This store is well known for its charming novelties in jewelry. And doesn't having what people want count as much as having the prices right? The continuously increasing business of this store is but natural. There is no mystery in the methods that are bringing more and more men and women here to trade. Better service, more dependable goods, and having what people want, have won.

DEMOCRAT LADIES DESERT BREAKFAST

Welcome Affair for Mrs. Wilson Disrupted Because of Dislike of G. O. P. Women

WASHINGTON, April 3.—With two or three women's democratic clubs withdrawing, it appeared today that the "welcome breakfast" to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson here next Saturday, would be democratic in name only. Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the speaker, announced she would not attend. Neither will members of the Women's National Democratic league or the Southern League of the Women's Wilson and Marshall clubs.

The trouble started when those promoting the breakfast, prominent society women, members of the Congressional club, the Southern Relief society, the D. A. R. and Colonial Dames—gave indication that they would reduce the representation of the democratic women in order to give wives of republicans places at the breakfast. A great many democratic women insist that the affair shall be a democratic one and will not attend because they understood the function was originally planned as a sort of celebration of a democratic mistress of the White house and now it appears to be a non-partisan affair.

Another feature of the breakfast which threatens trouble is a dispute over seating arrangements and precedents. Wives of the cabinet members will probably be seated at the table with Mrs. Wilson in the order of the precedence of their husbands.

WILL HONOR MORGAN

FULL MILITARY HONORS TO BE ACCORDED FINANCIER'S BODY BY FRENCH GOVERNMENT

PARIS, April 3.—Plans were completed today by the French government to render military honors to J. P. Morgan when his body is transferred at Havre from the Rome train to the steamship La France which on Saturday will sail for New York with Morgan's body. The financier was a member of the Legion of Honor and his rank as commander of the order entitles him to military recognition.

The government, after much deliberation and official consultation, waived customary delays and hastened telegraphic permits to Southampton allowing Morgan's body to cross the frontier without restriction.

KIDNAPED BY RELATIVES

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 3.—That relatives may have kidnaped Catherine Winters, the 9 year old daughter of Dr. W. A. Winters of this city, who has been missing since March 20, was still another theory being investigated today by private detectives. Clues of foul play and kidnapping by gypsies have not developed much.

The idea that relatives may have the child originated with a family quarrel over a $6,000 legacy from the girl's mother, to which Catherine and her younger brother, Frankie, are equal heirs. A brother of the children's father is said to have sworn to avenge himself for grievances he bears the doctor. This brother's present whereabouts are not known. The detectives are also to be working on a theory that Wisconsin relatives, who were very fond of Catherine, having reared her before Dr. Winters married again, may have the child.

ALLEGES EVIDENCE IS HELD

CHICAGO, April 3.—William C. Muschenheim, proprietor of the Hotel Astor in New York, will be served with a subpoena duces tecum to appear before U. S. Commissioner Foote on April 10 when Hans Bauder, a Swiss, is arraigned charged with swindling Swiss merchants out of $600,000 on fake mining stock deals. Bauder said that Muschenheim holds two of his trunks in which are documents that will prove his innocence.

MOOSE IN COURT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 3.—The right of the progressives to be considered the minority party on the strength of the vote polled in the November election is to be tested in the supreme court.

William H. Pundt of Danville today entered a motion for permission to file a petition for mandamus compelling County Judge Lawrence T. Allen of Vermillion county to remove one of the republican members from the election commission from the city and name a progressive in his place.

MEET OUTSIDE CITY

PATERSON, N. J., April 3.—More than 20,000 striking silk workers poured out of this city today to go to Haledon, the little socialist suburb, where they held open air meetings unmolested by the police. Today's mass meeting was called for the purpose of testing the sincerity of the offers of the assistance made by local officers of the A. F. of L. to the industrial workers of the world leaders in charge of the silk mills strike.

SULZER IS SHOCKED

ALBANY, N. Y., April 3.—Referring to the complaint of the railroads that the "full crew" law will "cost them a lot of money," Governor Sulzer today declared that he had been shocked to learn that the railroads killed five times as many persons last year as they did five years ago. He got the figures from the records of the public service commission.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Editor of the Tribune:

In last night's issue of The Tribune Mr. F. H. Hartwell commented on the results of the election, stating that the saloon men, banking on Mr. Sorensen opening up the town, and Harry Palmer and the boys of the Second ward, after the returns had come in last night hired a band and celebrated what they characterized as an open town victory.

In regard to this, I wish to state that the celebration in the Second ward was purely a celebration of that ward over the election of their alderman, Frank Kohn, and nobody took part in this or was invited except voters of this ward, and no others were admitted to the reception in the dining room of the Jefferson hotel, and the expenses connected with this celebration were paid for by voters and citizens of the Second ward. It was not in any sense a celebration over the "open town." I wish to state further, that we have as good citizens, morally and otherwise, in the Second ward, we believe, as in any other portion of the city, and assure the people of La Crosse that we are as much interested in the moral and financial welfare of this city as any other in it.

In regard to the statements made that the saloon men took an active part in this campaign, I will state as secretary of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association, that this association has never taken any part in this campaign whatever, and has never declared for or against either or any candidates, running in this election.

If Mr. Sorensen's victory is attributed to the saloon vote they may have a following in every ward in this city much larger than they or anybody else ever dreamed of or suspected.

In conclusion I will state that as secretary of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association and a citizen and voter of the Second ward, that any feelings that I may have had in regard to the candidates for mayor were my own personal opinions, and made as an individual citizen, and I never used the influence of my organization in regards to the same. Furthermore, I am proud to be a citizen of the Second ward and my records and actions are open at all times for inspection.

Respectfully,
C. A. DITTMAN,
Secy. Retail Liquor Dealers Ass'n.

STUDENT CHORUS BARS LONG SKIRT

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 3.—"Huh, we wouldn't look like girls unless we showed our ankles—or more."

Masculine students of the University of Illinois, who are to play chorus "girls" in the university musical comedy, "The Prodigal Prince," tossed this defi today at Mrs. Mary Fawcett, dean of women of the university. Mrs. Fawcett announced that the masculine chorus "queens" must not wear short skirts; that it would be "improper."

Twenty masculine students, togged in tights and fluffy short skirts, are rehearsing for the chorus.

JOHN BELL FLOOD HERO; KEPT OUTSIDE WORLD INFORMED OF DAYTON CALAMITY

John Bell.

John Bell, Dayton telephone operator, is one of the two heroes of the great Ohio flood. For a whole week—while the flood was at its worst—he slept on an average of but three hours a day. His only food was stale bread and coffee made from flood water, innocent of a trace of sugar or milk. He kept the anxious outside world informed as to conditions in the stricken city, and inside the town virtually supervised the distribution of relief.

The other hero of the flood was John H. Patterson, convicted head of the National Cash Register Company.

daughter and Dr. Richard Derby were completed today. The services will be simple in the extreme and only relatives and a few intimate friends will be present.

WILSON WANTS ACTION

PRESIDENT WANTS LESS HOT AIR AND QUICKER RESULTS
IN TARIFF DISCUSSION

WASHINGTON, April 3.—"Less hot air and more action is President Wilson's plan when the tariff bill comes before the house. The president made the house ways and means committee definitely acquainted with his tariff views yesterday."

Wilson pointed out that there was nothing in the tentative bill about the admission to the free list of foodstuffs. He put it up to Chairman Underwood and his assistants to get right back on the job and see to it that something was done to make the average American's table groan a little more with less groaning from the average American's bank roll.

The president's plan for quick action is simply to get the bill by through the committee and then, instead of leaving the debate open to all members of the house, to have a series of speeches by house leaders explaining the various sections of the bill, to be followed by immediate action on the measure, section by section.

The senate is expected to prove an obstacle in the path of the president's quick action program as there can be no limitation of debate in the upper house.

FORMER SENATOR IS SUBPOENAED

CHICAGO, April 3.—Federal Judge K. M. Landis yesterday issued a subpoena and ordered George H. Turner, former United States senator from Washington, brought into court immediately to tell what he knows about the $10,000,000 Alaska land fraud cases now on trial here. This action was taken when the government sprung a new sensation in the trial of Albert C. Frost and associates charged with the alleged land frauds today.

A letter was introduced in evidence purporting to show that Turner attempted in a roundabout way to get witnesses desired by the government to testify in the criminal prosecution of Frost to leave the country. Turner, who after his retirement from public life, was made a member of the joint Canadian boundary commission by President Taft is believed to be in Seattle.

GRASPS AT TOY BABE IS KILLED

CHICAGO, April 3.—A little red toy balloon, pushed by a gentle breeze, floated in front of the second story window where Rudolph Wisbangski, aged 3, was playing yesterday. He reached for it. A shrill scream sent his mother to the window. She saw the baby dead on the sidewalk in a pool of blood. One tiny hand clasped the little red balloon.

DISMISS LIBEL CHARGE

CHICAGO, April 3.—Charges of criminal libel brought against John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturing association were dismissed by Municipal Judge Olsen today on motion of State's Attorney Raber. The complaint was made by Andrew Lawrence, publisher of the Hearst papers. An attack on Lawrence during the Illinois senate white slave investigation, published in Glenn's paper, the Manufacturing News, was the basis for the suit.

PLEADS GUILTY TO AVOID MANN ACT

MAIDEN ROCK, Wis., April 3.—Fearing prosecution under the Mann act, B. Bowen, who was arrested for enticing a 15 year old girl away from her uncle's home in Spring Valley, pleaded guilty to seduction under promise of marriage, and is now held on that charge in the jail at Ellsworth. Bowen was arrested just as he and the girl were about to board a train for St. Paul on a warrant sworn out by the girl's uncle.

TIZ Cured Her Quick

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, calluses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett of Jeffersonville. TIZ did it. Mrs. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She had not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years; except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes."

No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. If anyone offers you an imitation that is claimed to be "as good as TIZ," ask why, if it is just as good, they don't dare to come out and advertise it. Don't you be a victim—get the genuine. KAISER DEMANDS BIG MILITARY FUND

German People Not Enthusiastic Over Emperor's Plan to Increase the Army

BERLIN, April 3.—The German people were asked yesterday to make their heaviest financial sacrifice for the Fatherland since 1813, when on the reconvening of the reichstag this afternoon, copies of the government's proposed bill appropriating $262,000,000 for military purposes and adding $100,000 to the imperial army were distributed among the members.

This extraordinary appropriation is additional to the regular army and navy budgets of 1913, amounting to a total of $350,000,000 and the total budgets to be submitted in this reichstag will amount to nearly $700,000,000.

The socialists, in principle, are against the measure, but though they can muster 110 votes in the body, on strictly party division, they have as yet been unable to bring about the defeat of any government measure.

Sentiment in the reichstag was that the bill undoubtedly would be passed. It might be cut down slightly, but even that is doubtful. Property owners are to foot the bill, every fortune of over $5,000 being taxed by the provisions of the measure. The new increase will bring the peace footing of the German standing army up to 850,000 with a war total of about 6,000,000.

The "spirit of 1813," when the Germans melted their gold and silver to procure arms with which to drive out Napoleon was not manifest today. Enthusiasm was lacking.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN.

Spring elections of county and city officials passed off quietly in Prairie du Chien.

Hon. Jeremiah O'Neill, editor of the "Kickapoo Chief," Wauzeka, was elected probate judge to succeed Alvin B. Peterson of Soldiers Grove; George Burton of Eastman was re-elected county superintendent of schools, his opponent, Charles Jewett, principal of the township high school at Seneca, making a good showing, however.

In the city of Prairie du Chien, J. D. Stuart was elected assessor. Aldermen and supervisors were chosen as follows: First ward, Emil Strauman, alderman; Charles Kalina, supervisor.

Second ward, Edward McCloskey, alderman; John F. Herold, supervisor.

Third ward, George Kieser, alderman; Thomas DeLacy, supervisor.

Fourth ward, Daniel Mackin, alderman; William Bush, supervisor.

Of the villages in the county voting on the license question, Eastman and Soldiers Grove went dry; Soldiers Grove, Bell Center, Wauzeka, Ferryville and Gays Mills went, the latter by one vote.

The death of Mrs. Morphillins, formerly of Prairie du Chien, occurred Tuesday at Froelich, Iowa, the remains being brought here for interment. Mrs. Morphillins was the mother of Lewis Morphillins and of Mrs. H. L. Schultz. Funeral at Zion church Thursday morning, Rev. F. A. Troutman officiating and interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. James Garvey, one of the old and highly respected residents of this city, died Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Evans, after several years of failing health. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. Gabriel's church, Rev. Fr. P. Becker officiating. Mrs. Garvey was the widow of James Garvey, former mayor of the city, who died two years ago.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Bittner, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franz Bittner, to Henry Eulberg, of Garnaville, Iowa, took place Wednesday morning at St. Gabriel's church. A wedding breakfast was served to relatives and friends at the home of the bride's parents and the young couple left on the afternoon train for a short wedding trip. They will reside in Garnaville.

Good Models

for

Fashionable Fabrics

MAY MANTON

THE blouse is a subject of perpetual interest to the feminine world. This season it has taken on so many possibilities that it makes a never-ending subject of discussion. We will wear long sleeves, three-quarter sleeves and elbow sleeves. We will wear round, square and V-shaped necks with and without chemisettes. A great many of the blouses are made with the long drooping shoulder line and again the over blouse is in the height of style. Such models lend themselves to combinations of material with ideal success and this is essentially a season of combinations. The illustration is replete with suggestion.

FRONT closings make an accepted feature of blouses of the simpler sort. One of these shown here is made with a little chemisette and Robespierre collar that are cut in one. It includes a becoming plait over each shoulder and it makes an excellent model both for the simple gown and for the odd blouse. Practical, useful buttons and button-holes make the proper means of closing.

DAINTY shirred effects are always pretty in thin materials and we are to wear such diaphanous fabrics this summer that the model that is shirred and finished with deep trimming of lace is especially worthy of mention. In common with many another design of this season, trimming and treatment completely transform it. Fundamentally it is just a simple shirred blouse and, if it is made with high neck and without trimming, it is available for morning wear, whereas, with the square neck and trimming, it is really elaborate in effect.

THERE is no feature of present styles more insistent than the one of contrasting sleeves. The illustration shows two blouses that are treated in that way. In one case, the plain sleeves are simply stitched to the blouse at the drooping shoulder line but, in the other, there is a novel arrangement of over-lapped edges that is in every way distinctive. The plainer blouse is closed right down the front and shows a satisfactory feature in the sleeves that are laid in little tucks at the inner arm, for these tucks provide fullness for the elbows. In this case, flowered silk is combined with plain. The more elaborate blouse shows brocaded cotton crepe over plain crepe but a pretty effect could be obtained by the use of contrasting voile or cotton crepe over white, or fancy silk over plain; for we are treating silk and cotton after the same manner this season.

SIMPLE models are always especially appealing as warm weather approaches. The blouse with the full fronts and diagonal closing is very charming and very attractive. It is pretty for the cotton crepes that are worn so much, charming for the soft silks and it is equally well adapted to marquisette and voile. This one is made of dotted mull with trimming of embroidery. A very smart blouse could be made from white crepe de chine with collar and cuffs of embroidery in Bulgarian style or the new moiré silk, which is soft enough to be made full, with collar and cuffs of plain material or lace. In fact, as stated in the opening sentence, the blouse of the season is a fascinating creation, made from many beautiful materials and in many attractive ways.

FRILLS make another important feature just now. The two frilled blouses are charming. Each shows a different variety of the Robespierre collar. The blouse with over-lapped edges and diagonal closing can be made with either long or elbow sleeves. In the illustration, the material is a brocaded crepe and the collar is white silk while the frill is of lingerie material hem-stitched. The other frilled blouse is somewhat more on the shirt waist order but includes a novel and pretty closing. It also can be made with shorter sleeves as can almost every model shown, for sleeves are a matter of individual preference and it is always easy to cut them off at any desired length.

SUCH an over blouse as the one shown is sure to be appreciated. It can be made from so many different materials and it can be put to so many different uses. Just now when we are using the loveliest possible brocaded and flowered silks, it is especially useful. This one can be worn over any kind of a blouse or guimpe and a practical feature is found in the adjustable girdle that can be arranged at the high or the natural waist line. As shown here, the blouse is made of one of the satin finished foulards and is designed to be worn with a skirt to match.

FOR indoor wear, nothing seems so popular as crepe whether it is in silk or wool or a mixture of the two or cotton. An attractive little afternoon dress that illustrates the favor for crepe and the new over blouse in its latest form is extensively charming in an unusual way. The skirt is narrow, showing a plain triple box plait at the back while, at the front, it is very slightly draped over a wedge-shaped panel. The bodice is of fine shadow lace with the sleeveless draped blouse of crepe over it. The neck is round and collarless. The lace sleeves are finished with folds of crepe and folds of the same material make the girdle. The front edges of the skirt and the edges of the over blouse are finished with hem stitching, scarcely anything prettier could be devised for the use for which this dress is designed. It is admirable for the luncheon or bridge party, it is quite correct for the theatre and, if a little loose coat of satin, either of the same or of a bright color, were added, the costume be worn upon the street as well as within doors.

Very little children are extremely apt to follow the trend of their mothers in prevailing styles. This season draped frocks of this sort are fashionable and they are made from all sorts of pretty, childlike materials. The lace bertha that falls over the shoulders gives pretty lines and the sash that is arranged at the high waist line is quaint in effect. In the back view, the same frock is shown with the skirt allowed to hang straight and without the frill on the foundation.

GREEN on some of the quiet tones is beautiful. A charming costume of crepe de Chine is finished with a collar and cuffs of emerald green satin and there is a little tunic of the same arranged over the skirt while the vestee of the little jaunty coat is made of white cloth and held by emerald buttons. A most attractive blouse is made of sulphur colored crepe de Chine with trimming of velvet buttons and cream lace. A very lovely afternoon gown is made entirely of sulphur yellow satin with girdle and neck bow of navy satin while the collar and chemisette are of soft white tulle. Everything dainty and transparent is used for yokes and chemisettes. Either we wear round necks or appear to do so for the coverings when used are nearly invisible.

HILL ROAD PLANS INVASION OF C. P.

CANADIAN RAILROAD COUNTERS

Dominion Railway Announces Plan to Build Soo Line Through Montana

ST. PAUL, April 3.—That the hottest railroad war in many years between two of the largest systems in the world with the battle ground in northern Montana and southern Alberta, is inevitable was the rumor circulated today in local and Canadian railroad circles. The two systems are the Hill lines and the Canadian Pacific with its subsidiary, the Soo line.

The fact that the Great Northern has thrown a party of survivors in the field on the eastern side of Glacier park indicates that J. J. Hill means to carry out his threat of invading Alberta territory.

The Canadian Pacific, taking cognizance of Hill's move into this Alberta district, which it now traverses without a competitor, is planning on a counter move by the recent announcement that it will, through the Soo line, build through Montana. The Soo line now has an army of graders and tie layers in the field, extending its present line from North Dakota into Montana, with the intention of eventually connecting with the coast.

The line proposed by the Great Northern will extend from the main line across the Blackfoot reservation over the international boundary to a point well north in Alberta.

SPOTLIGHTS

"BEVERLY"
 A. G. Delamater's production of George Barr McCutcheon's "Beverly" to be presented at the La Crosse theater on Saturday, April 5, matinee and night, is a masterly dramatization by Robert M. Baker of Mr. McCutcheon's most popular, entertaining and best selling novel, "Beverly of Graustark." An excellent scenic production has been given the play by Mr. A. G. Delamater and William Norris. All of the interesting characters of the story have been retained in the play and are more entertaining in real life than in the story. The Beverly of the play is Beverly Calhoun of Washington, D. C., a typical bright American girl, who accompanied only by her old colored servant, Aunt Fanny, journeys to Graustark at a time when that country is on the verge of war to visit Yette, the ruling princess. She is deserted in the mountains by her escort, falls into the hands of what she believes to be a band of brigands, proceeds to fall desperately in love with the leader of the band who is wounded in her defense. She masquerades as the princess, and after many adventures of humorous and exciting adventures is wooed and won by her outcast hero who eventually turns out to be none other than Prince Danton.

"THE BOHEMIAN GIRL"
 Few ballads have retained their popularity as have "The Heart Bowed Down," "Fair Land of Poland," "Then You'll Remember Me," "I Dream I Dwell in Marble Halls," and no doubt these and the ensembles in "The Bohemian Girl" will continue to keep Balfie's masterpiece in high favor for all times. This delightful opera, the mammoth spectacular version of which will be presented by the Aborn Opera company at the La Crosse theater on Sunday, April 6, matinee and night, seems to add more admirers as it acquired age, and it has been presented for just sixty-nine years, during which it was produced in France under the title of "La Bohemienne," in Hamburg as "La Gitana" and in Vienna as "Die Zigeunerin," and with marked success in each instance. In its five remarkable stage pictures there figures a splendidly drilled chorus, and corps de ballet, and in the incidental detail, a troupe of whirlwind acrobats, a band of real gypsies, troubadours, jugglers and a cavalcade of trained horses, in all making one of the most charmingly staged and massive productions ever staged here. While the acme of stage realism is reached in the Aborn version of Balfie's fine old opera, the promise is made that this has not been accomplished in the slightest degree at the cost of the music in the rendition will be heard a cast of grand opera soloists including Blanche Morrison, who is repeating her success of last season as "Arline," Claudia Albright, formerly of the Carl Rosa Opera company of England, as the Gypsy queen; a tenor of repute will be the "Thaddeus," while James Stevens, Joseph Florian and Augustus Vaughn will assume the roles respectively of "Count Arnheim," "Devilshoof" and "Florenstein," characters which they have portrayed many times.

CHILD SENDS DOLLAR
 WASHINGTON, April 3.—A much crumpled dollar bill representing many week's spending money to 10 year old Berenice F. Ellis of Goodland, Kas., was added by President Wilson today to the flood sufferers fund.

Master Berenice sent his mite with a scrawled, mis-spelled letter. "I am sending a small remittance out of my meager allowance for the flood sufferers," he wrote. "It isn't much, but I hope it will do some good to a little boy or girl who has lost their mamma or papa."

CHICAGOAN CUE CHAMP
 PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 3.—Percy Collins of Chicago is national amateur billiard champion today, following his defeat of Willie C. Dursley of Portland, Ore., by a score of 400 to 268. Collins' high run was 93 and his average was 14.8-28.

PLAN CHANGES ON THE BOXING LAW
 MADISON, Wis., April 3.—(Special.)—When the Hedding boxing bill is reported favorably by the committee on judiciary, it is understood that the bill will come to the house in a modified form with many of the objections eliminated which have been urged against it at the hearings. So many sections of the present bill may have to be amended that it is generally believed that the judiciary committee will report out a substitute measure.

TWO FUNCHES WIN BOUT FOR GUNBOAT
 NEW YORK, April 3.—With prospects of Luther McCarty and Gunboat Smith being matched for a ten round go here early in May, the question now is whether Luther is shifty enough to keep out of Gunboat's reach at all times. Smith disposed of Fred McKay, the Canadian, in the second round of their fight last night and as was the case in the Wells-Smith bout, two punches decided the go. McKay towered above Smith and outweighed him 29 pounds. When it came to boxing he made Smith look like a novice during the first round, just as Wells did. Then came the second round and Smith got in close, shooting a right to the stomach doubling McKay up. A right to the jaw followed and it was all over.

CHICAGOAN CUE CHAMP
 PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 3.—Percy Collins of Chicago is national amateur billiard champion today, following his defeat of Willie C. Dursley of Portland, Ore., by a score of 400 to 268. Collins' high run was 93 and his average was 14.8-28.

INTER-CLASS BALL PLANNED FOR HIGH

League of Four Classes and Tennis to Get Every Boy Interested in the Sport

The assembly at the high school this morning took up several points that are of interest to the student body at large. The Booster came in for its share of attention primarily toward making the annual one to be remembered as the best. In order to do this it was pointed out that every person in school would have to do some one thing for the paper.

It was announced that there will be a summer school again this summer for those pupils who have passed in four studies and wish to gain a credit and those who are back in their work and wish to make it up. The advisory plan to be used since the school has grown so big was explained. The session teachers are to act as the advisor for the class he has charge of and it will be his duty to see that any function of this class will not conflict with those of some other class. The different school organizations will have some one of the faculty as its advisor. There will be a school calendar and the dates set for any occasion will be marked on it and will be used for consultation.

The athletic plan for the boys was outlined for the season and includes a baseball league of the different classes and an all around field meet. There will also be a tennis tournament for those men who are not interested in other sports. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of these games which will act as an incentive to get every boy in school interested in some sort of sport.

BINGLES FROM THE TRAINING CAMP

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 3.—Determined to take advantage of the few remaining days' training in the south, Manager McGraw put a few extra stunts into the schedule of the Giants today. The players are in good shape. They continue their journey northward this afternoon.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 3.—The White Sox arrived here today for a two game series with the Omaha team of the Western league. Sheets of sand pushed along by a 40 mile gale, drove Callahan's leaguers to cover at Amarillo, Texas, yesterday, after they had stowed away a 12 to 2 victory in seven innings.

victory. Stahl himself inserted three singles into the result.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 3.—Manager Birmingham was more than pleased today over the exhibition of one of his young pitchers in yesterday's game against the Pelicans. Nick Cullip held the New Orleans team to three hits in five innings, enabling the Naps to win out by a score of five to one.
